Reading Comprehension

( Text 1) Suggested exercises from Al Wosta enrichment material

1) Read the text and do the tasks below:

Hi everyone

Well, the first week has nearly passed, with no real problems to tell you about so far. It hasn't been easy though. So many things are different from what I'm used to. There's the language, for one thing. As you know, I've been studying English for many years, but this is like being a beginner all over again. It seems as if everyone is speaking a different language from the one I studied at school! Still I'm beginning to get used to hearing English all around me. Lectures don't start till next week, so this week has been a time of settling in: finding my way around, meeting people on the same course, joining clubs and societies and so on. There's actually a Palestine Society (which I joined of course). They have guest speakers and discussion groups, organize cultural events and even food evenings, so at least I'll have some connection with home. I've joined two other clubs as well.

I hope you're all well . I'll write again soon

Love

Mahmoud

Text 2: Stepping outside your comfort zone*2) Read the text and do the tasks below :

Your comfort zone is, as the name suggests, the area where you feel comfortable. We all have one, whether we know or not: it's the set of routines and known abilities that make us feel safe because we are confident that we can manage and are unlikely to be challenged by anything unexpected or worrying. Obviously staying inside your comfort zone has many benefits, especially at times when you are feeling under stress.

On the other hand, we are often told in "self-help books" that it's a good idea to do things that are outside our comfort zone. In fact, many studies have shown that an important factor in helping people feel positive about themselves is the feeling that they are developing and making progress in their lives. You won't reach your full potential if you only do what you know you are able to do. We all want to improve ourselves, for example by learning something new, becoming more creative or getting fit.

Unfortunately, people often get stuck in their comfort zones and don't feel able to try different things. There are various possible reasons for this. They may be afraid of failing or unsure how to begin. Many people think, "This is the way I am and I'll never change", using this as an excuse for not trying something new. Whatever the reason may be, it's sometimes necessary to force yourself to do something you'd rather not do. Once you've made the effort, though, the door to new experiences will be open and you'll probably wonder why you thought it was a problem.

The results of a new poll show that financial problems have taken over from the environment as the main concern for young people. The survey asked 12.000 people aged between 14 and 18 what they were most worried about. The clear winner was "finding a job", while the environment was only the seventh greatest worry. This compares with similar polls in the last fifteen years, when environmental worries came first.

One of the poll's organizers commented that the results demonstrated a clear change in attitude. " It's not just that getting a job is the main worry," he said. "Also included in the top six worries were getting into debt (6th) and passing exams (4th=).I'm convinced that there's a connection. Because of changes in the job market, there is more and more pressure on young people nowadays to pass exams and go on to university in the hope of finding a good job. And rising university fees make it inevitable that many students graduate from university with huge debts. Other concerns mentioned by large numbers of young people also tended to be personal rather than social, including worries about relationships (2nd), health(3rd) and fitting in with peers(4th=)

Annette Coleman, director of the Green Earth organization, said yesterday that she was disappointed, but not surprised, at the fall in the number of young people concerned about the environment.

Annette Coleman, director of the Green Earth organization, said yesterday that she was disappointed, but not surprised, at the fall in the number of young people concerned about the environment. 'It's not that the environmental concerns are less urgent than before – quite the opposite in fact. It's just that after decades of publicity on topics like climate change, so little has actually changed. A lot of people get the feeling that there's nothing we can do about it, and young people in particular tend to be impatient. Of course, the other thing is that in times of economic difficulty people are more likely to focus on worries that are more immediate and have an impact on their daily lives.

A: Answer the following questions :

1-What do the results the new poll show ?

2-Why are getting a job and passing exams closely related ?

Reading comprehension :Text 1(Exam 10-8-2020 دورة ثانية الفروع المهنية والشرعية)*Read the text and do the tasks below:

A:.....

One day , I noticed that some bananas , which I had bought about a week before , were going brown . ‘Let’s make some banana cake ‘ I said to my six- year –old daughter , Fatima . It took quite a long time ,but it kept Fatima busy and we had fun making them . When they were done , we tried one and it was actually delicious , so I suggested one to Mr Aziz , the old man who lives next door . When Mr Aziz opened the door, before I could say a word , Fatima told him :We had some old bananas that were going bad , so instead of throwing them away we made them into a cake for you . I hope you like it .

B:.....

A couple of years ago , I was talking to an old school friend that I’d kept in touch with when she mentioned another person called Jane , who had been in the same class as us . Neither of us had heard from her, or even thought about her , for over ten years . I didn’t give the conversation another thought until three days later , when I was working in London for two days . As I was travelling to the office , I saw a women on the train . Our eyes met and we seemed to recognize each other . ‘Excuse me ‘ she said ‘but are you Suzan ?’ It was , of course , Jane . As it turned out , she was only visiting London for a few days and about to return to Italy , where she had lived for over five years .

C:.....

About three or four times a year , a company that I do some work for organizes a day of meeting for those of us that work from home . They put us up in a hotel and it’s a good chance for colleagues who don’t meet that often to catch up with each other . The last time this happened, I arrived at the hotel quite late and went straight to bed .The next morning , I walked into the breakfast room and saw my old colleague Dan , a short man with a bald head , standing with his back to me . ‘Good morning , Dan’ I said , patting him on the head in a friendly way . Unfortunately , the man who turned to face me wasn’t Dan at all , but a complete stranger . To make things worse , he was a rather formal man who didn’t see the funny side of the situation . ‘ I’m sorry to say that you may have made an error ,’ he said .

Reading comprehension :Text (2) Exam ( الدورة الأولى أدبي 2020-12 - )

Read the text and do the tasks below :

We often hear people say" It's a small world, isn't it? It's usually when they've just experienced one of those strange coincidences that seem to happen in nearly everyone's lives. You know the kind of thing: you're on holiday in another country and you run into a person you know from home, even though neither of you knew that the other was going there too.

People often think experiences like this are evidence of something mysterious happening, some kind of hidden plan outside our knowledge. The scientific explanation is less exciting, and perhaps that's why some people are reluctant to accept it. Coincidences are events that unexpectedly happen at the same time for no clear reason, or finding an unexpected connection between seemingly random things or people. A very common example of the latter is talking to a complete stranger and finding that you have the same birthday. What are the chances of that happening?

Actually, the chances are better than you might think, and there's a mathematical way to prove it. It has been calculated that the number of people you need to have a 50% chance of two of them sharing a birthday is 23. And when there are 48 people in a room, the probability goes up to 95%.To put it another way, if there are only 50 people reading these words (and I hope there are more !), one of them will almost certainly have the same birthday as me .

The other part of the scientific explanation for coincidences is simply that there are so many events in people's lives. Just think of the number of people that you have had any kind of connection with during your life. There are probably over 10,000, and the older you get, the more there will be. If you are the kind of person who talks to strangers, you will definitely come across coincidences. Basically, when you think about how complex our lives are, especially nowadays with the internet, the only surprising thing is that coincidences don't happen more often.

A: Answer the following questions :

- 1-What do people think of coincidences ?
.....
- 2-What two definitions of "coincidences" does the writer give ?
a.....
b.....
- 3-How does the writer prove coincidences scientifically ?
.....
- 4-When do you definitely come across coincidences?
.....

B: Decide whether each of the following is True (T) or False (F):

- 1-Strange coincidences make people say "It's a small world, isn't it" . ( )
- 2-People prefer more exciting explanation for strange coincidences than scientific explanation . ( )
- 3-The writer concludes that coincidences happen more often than we think . ( )

C:What do these pronouns refer to ?

- 1- this (line 5)..... 3- them (line14).....
- 2-it (line 7)..... 4-10000(line 18).....

Reading comprehension : ( Exam 16-8-2021) الفرع الأدبي*Read the texts and do the tasks below :*TEXT A

As a parent, I'm becoming increasingly worried about the effect communications technology is having on young people. My fourteen –year- old son seems to spend hours every day texting or chatting online, or updating hi social media page. He says he's going to do his homework, but an hour or two later still hasn't started it, and I can't help feeling that he's wasting so much time on this instead of doing useful things, or even just being with his friends and communicating with real people.

Is all this texting affecting young people's ability to use language properly? Is there a danger they could become addicted to technology? What potential dangers are out there in the online world? I don't know enough about these new technologies to be able to answer questions like these .

TEXT B

Like it or not , today's young people are the connected generation A recent study in the US found that nearly quarter of teenagers use social media sites at least ten times a day and 75% own mobile phones. Texting is now the main form of communication for young people .The figures obviously vary between countries , but the one thing we can predict is that they will continue to rise .

Inevitably, this has led to panic among parents, teachers and other adults. But are these fears justified? Not according to Dr Amy Lehane. ' If you look back' she says, 'you find the same panic reaction from older people to the growth of telephone and television, often it comes from a fear of something they don't understand, but our research indicates that young people are quite capable of telling the difference between the online world and the real world. They are also very aware of the possible negative effects of technology: they know, for example ,that it's not a good to post a message like "I'm having a party net Saturday on public site .

Read the text and answer the questions below:

It isn't hard to explain why parents, teachers and older people in general get so concerned about the negative effects of young people's use of communications technology. They may be motivated by a wish to protect their children from harm or to control them, but throughout history older generations have always tried to put limits on the behavior of the young.

The only difference now is that the Internet is such a powerful force, and older people generally don't really understand this new world of social media and instant communication, so they're unable to control it. And the situation is changing so fast that the gap in their knowledge is widening all the time.

In a similar way, governments, even in democratic countries, like to put limits on people's behavior. After all, it's a large part of what governments are about. They may have more technological knowledge than the average parent, but the spread of social media sites and communications apps like Twitter and WhatsApp is making it harder and harder for them to control what their citizens are saying and doing.

Clearly, this isn't always a positive trend, but what we can say for sure is that new information and communications technologies are a force for social change and economic development, especially in poorer countries without a reliable traditional phone network. The World Bank has calculated that in countries like this, a 10% increase in high-speed Internet connections leads to a 1.3% increase in economic growth. It is, they say, 'the single most powerful way to extend economic opportunities and services to millions of people, especially in remote areas'.

A recent headline on the BBC website asked: "Could Ramallah become an Arab World technology hub?" The article went on to show how young Palestinians are starting small technology companies that could help the Palestinian economy to break free from restrictions placed on it by the Israeli occupation. As one interviewee explains: ' this is what is good about technology: it breaks the borders. A person with a laptop can work in the worst situations; he can work from his home and interact with the global community, without a passport and despite the occupation. It is limitless.

A: Answer the following questions :

1-Why are parents and teachers concerned about the negative effects of young people's use of technology ?

2-What do governments and older generations have in common ?

3-What makes it harder for the governments to control what their citizens are saying and doing ?

4-How could the Palestinian economy break free from the Israeli restrictions?

B: Complete the sentences below :

1-According to the World Bank , if there is a 20% increase in internet speed , this will lead to a .....%increase in economic growth .

2-According to an interviewee , technology is good because it is .....

Read the following text the do the tasks below :

Social media is a vital aspect of teenagers' and children's social and creative lives . They use social media to have fun , make and maintain friendships , share interests , explore identities and develop relationships with families . It's an extension of their offline and face to face interactions.

Social media can connect children and teenagers to online global communities based on shared interests . These might be support networks –for example , for young people with disability or medical conditions , teenagers who are same , or children from particular cultural backgrounds.

Social networking has also changed the way kids learn . They are always interacting and giving feedback to one other , than from adults . Learning can now come from newer sources and not just their parents or teachers . However , social media sites can also mark risk . The most well-known downside is the addiction they create . This addiction disrupts their various activities . Some of the kids realize that they are wasting a lot of time on social sites and that affects their mood negatively . They end up wasting a substantial amount of time every day , resulting in lack of concentration and poor grades in school . Not less dangerously , students mostly use slang words or shortened forms of words on social networking sites . This reduces their command over the language and their creativity skills .

Overusing social media can directly impact physical health . This , of course is usually associated with the way you use . You can get eyestrain from staring for too long . Besides , if you're staying up too late posting on Twitter or Facebook , you may be losing valuable sleep.

Technology has become an integral part of our lives. It has transformed our lives in many ways. It has made life easier and more convenient for us; we can send messages quickly via the internet, cook meals in a few minutes in a microwave, and book train tickets online instead of walking to the station. Have we become addicted to technology?

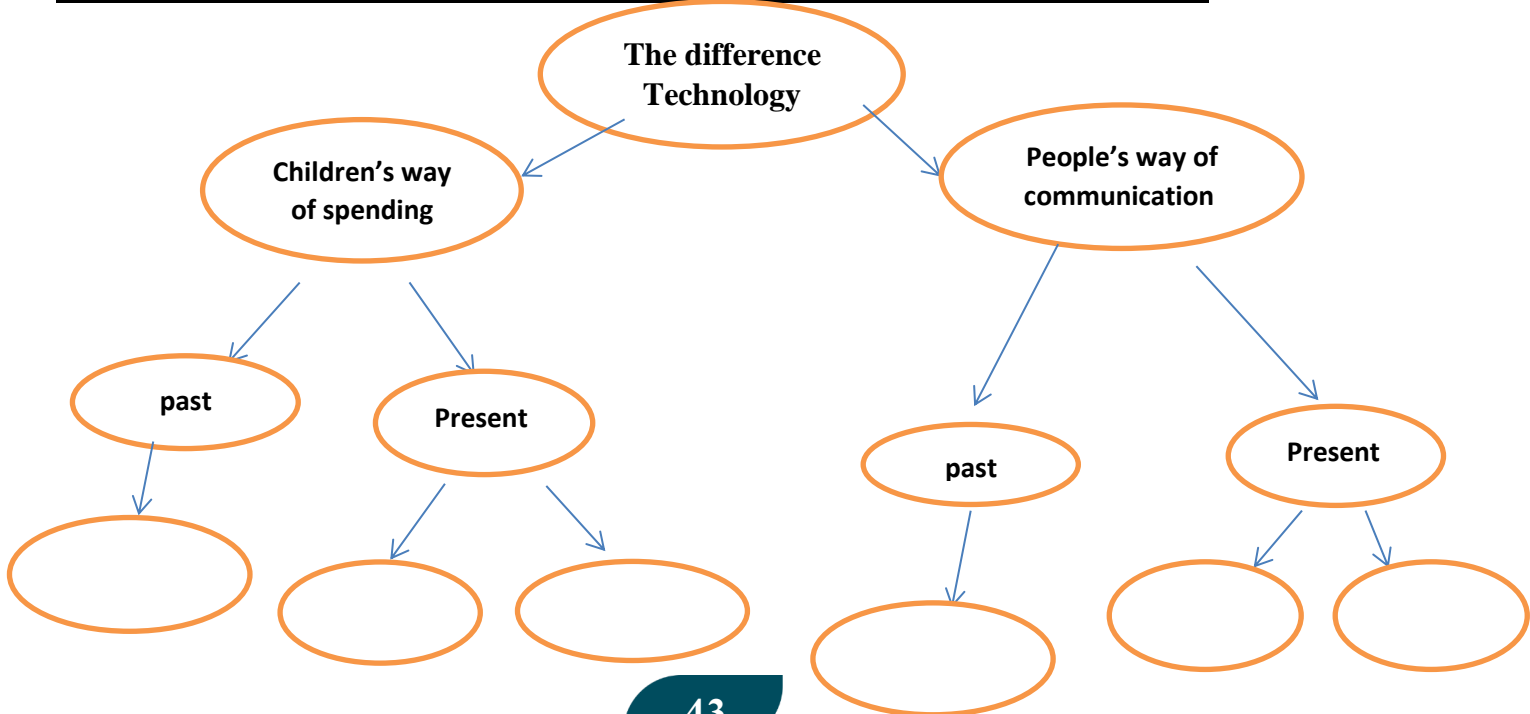

Not too long ago, many children enjoyed reading a good book in their spare time. Nowadays, they are more likely to be seen playing video games or watching television, which leaves them with no time to interact with other children. This has resulted in increased cases of loneliness and depression among children.

Similarly, sending letters has become a thing of the past. It has been replaced by email, instant messaging and social media. As to me, this is a huge shame; there’s nothing better than receiving a letter in the post. The presence of social media has had, in some respects, bad impact on our social life. Although online communication has its advantages, some technological advances have nearly killed human touch and turned us into anti-social beings. After all, we shouldn’t forget the value of real-life human interaction. It is in our nature to socialize with others.

..... The benefits of the internet are so extensive that it has positively changed human society in every department. It has made life a lot easier by making information more accessible to all and creating connections with different people all around the world. For many people, the internet has become the fuel of their daily life.

..... However, it has also led to a lot of people to spend too much time in front of the computer, so much that it becomes the center of their lives. This can lead an internet addiction. It is a mental condition characterized by excessive use of the internet, usually causing detriment to the user. internet addiction is also known by numerous other terms, including problematic internet use, internet overuse and compulsive internet use.

..... Studies show that internet addiction is quite common among people who are suffering from anxiety and depression. Their lack of emotional support means they turn to the internet to fill this need. Even being stressed and unhappy can contribute greatly to the development of a computer or internet addiction. There are also those who have a history of other types of addiction such as addiction to alcohol, drugs and gambling. People who are overly shy and cannot easily relate to their peers are also at a higher risk of developing a computer or internet addiction.

..... Internet addiction can be a significant threat to one's health and social wellbeing. The short-term effects of an online addiction include unfinished tasks and forgotten responsibilities. short-term effects are seen more in the psychical symptoms such as backache, neck pain, and vision problems from staring at the screen. internet addiction also enforces antisocial behavior. It can lead to the inability to communicate in the real world by depriving the addict of the daily practices involved with the interpersonal communication. This, of course, cripple's one's inability to maintain a healthy social life.

Spending your free time on the Internet can be fun. You can chat ,share photos with friends ,and play online games . But some people are addicted to the Internet . They just can't turn it off.

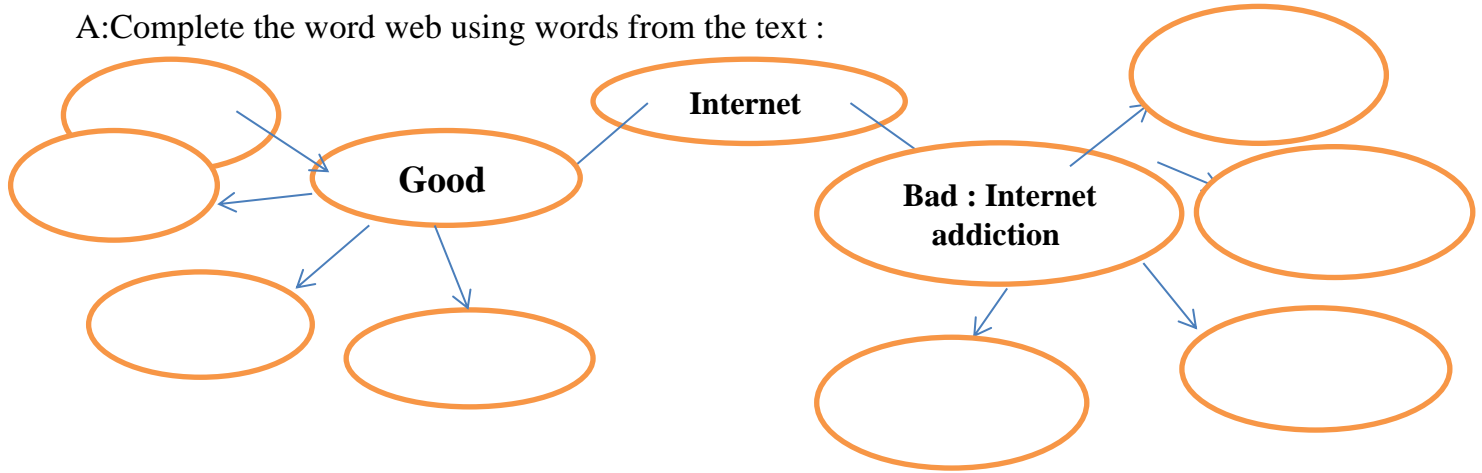

Being online for many hours at a time does not mean you have a problem . The Internet is very useful Online ,you can pay your bills ,buy clothes ,and read the news . There are many good reasons to spend time online .

However ,people with an Internet addiction are online too much . They don't spend time with their friends and families . Instead , they spend their time chatting with their Internet friends ,people they have never met in real life . Some also play online games all day or night . Some people with Internet addictions even leave their jobs so they can spend even more time online

People with Internet addictions don't just go online to shop ,have fun , or to do work . People who have this problem often go online because they want to escape the stress and problems in their lives . Many Internet addicts stop caring about their real lives , and focus only on their online lives .

One way Internet addicts can get help is by using special software . This software controls how much time someone can spend online . It tells the computer to turn off the internet after a certain amount time .This helps people focus on real life . The software's goal is to teach people to use the Internet for good reasons and not just escape .

Reading comprehension 1*1) Read the two text and do the tasks below: دورة ثانية 2018

A: A new study into how the internet is changing the nature of friendship has found that social networking sites like Facebook and Myspace don't help people make more close friends. Although people (especially young people) using these sites claim to have thousands of friends, this research suggests that face-to face contact is usually needed to form genuine relationships.

Many previous studies of friendship have established that the maximum number of people in a standard friendship group is 150, with about five of these regarded as close friends. This new study has found that these figures remain roughly the same for online friends. What's more, the five closest friends of regular Internet users are likely to be people they have actually met.

'To form close friendships, we need to be able to trust the other person,' explains Dr Samuel Holiday, one of the report's co-authors , 'and with people that you only know through the Internet, you can' even be sure they are who they say they are.'

B: As someone who has made a lot of friends via the internet, I'm tired of hearing that they are not real friends. The argument seems to be that you can never really know someone unless you've actually met them. The fact is that meeting someone is no guarantee that they are who they say they are. I've met lots of people whose real character and intentions turned out to be different from those first presented. In fact, I regard some people I've met online as my closest friends. We actually have many interests in common which is why we got together in the first place. The things I'm interested in are perhaps a bit unusual and there's little chance of meeting others with the same interest without the internet.

A: Decide whether each of the following is TRUE or FALSE

- 1 New research shows that social networking sites enable us to build genuine relationships . ( )
 2 Dr Samuel believes we can't trust people we haven't actually met . ( )
 3 The writer of text B has similar interests to most people . ( )

B: Which of the two writers would agree with the following opinions

1. Online friends are not as real as those we have actually met . A / B
 2. Social media sites help you find people with similar interests . A / B
 3. Meeting someone doesn't necessarily reveal his real character . A / B
 4. Face – to- face interaction is necessary to form close friendships . A / B

C: Choose the correct answer:

1. The writer of text B builds his opinion on a a research study b personal experience
 2. ' one of the report's co authors . The word co authors indicates a ) Dr Samuel wrote the report by himself b) Dr Samuel is one of the writers
 3. ' as real as the ones we happened to make face to face . The underlined verb means
 A) didn't plan or arrange b) intended to do

D: Complete the following

- 1 The new research exactly studied .....
- 2 According to Samuel Holiday , we need to ..... to make close friendships , and this is difficult to happen online because .....
- 3- According to the writer of Text B, friends get together because .....

2 Read the text and do the tasks below: مادة اضافية من كراسة الوسطى

1 ..... Everyone has acquaintances- people we know, but who aren't (yet) friends. To take your friendship further than just discussing the weather, you need to show an interest in their lives. Ask them questions (but don't get too personal at first). Even more importantly, listen to their answers and remember the information for the next time you meet.

2 ..... When making arrangements, there are two possible ways of behaving that can harm a friendship. The first is forcing the other person to make all the decisions by saying things like 'I don't mind you, you choose or 'Whatever you want'. The other is being particular or inflexible about what you want to happen, or where, or when. Try to find a middle way between the two extremes.

3 ..... It's understandable that you want to impress a new friend and make them aware of your good points, but don't go too far. Research shows that most of us tend to like people who don't boast about achievements or take themselves too seriously.

4 ..... If someone tells you something 'in confidence', it means just that – they are confident that you won't tell anyone else. In other words, they trust you. If you then pass on this information to another person, that trust is broken. Even if your friend doesn't find out what you have done, this kind of behavior can easily destroy a friendship overtime.

1- Match the titles with the paragraphs above:

- A: Keep secrets to yourself                      B: Be interested
C: Don't try too hard                              D: Be clear, but not demanding

2- Answer the questions :

1-What do you need to do to show interest in a friend's life?

A.....

B.....

C .....

2-What two ways that could harm a friendship when making arrangements?

A .....

3- Write suitable tips for the following people, using ideas from the text above:

A: 'Should I always accept my friend's decision or I have to be the one to decide?'

.....

B: 'I really want her to be my close friend, but I don't know how to get further'

.....

C: 'My friend tells me everything about his life. It seems he trusts me a lot.'

.....

D: 'Should I tell people about my expensive car and big house?'

Reading (External) دورة أولى 2017

Friends have large impact on your happiness . Good friends relief stress , provide comfort and joy , prevent loneliness and isolation , and even strengthen your health . But close friendships don't just happen . Many of us struggle to meet new people and develop quality connections .Whatever your age or circumstances , though, it's never too late to make new friends , reconnect your old ones , and improve your social life.

Tips for being more friendly and social ( even if you are shy )

It can feel uncomfortable to put yourself out there socially . But you don't have to be naturally outgoing or the life of the party to make new friends .

a ..... The key of connecting to other people is showing interest in them . When you are interested in someone else's thoughts , feelings, experiences and opinions , it shows- and they'll like you for it . You'll make far more friends by showing your interest rather than trying to get people interested in you .

b ..... If you are just pretending to listen or faking interest , others will pick up on it . Rather than fostering greater connection , your efforts will likely backfire . If you are not genuinely interested in the other person , then stop trying to connect .

c ..... Make an effort to truly listen to the other person . By paying close attention to what they say, do , and how they interact , you'll quickly get to know them . Little things go a long way such as remembering someone's preferences , the stories they've told you , and what's going on in their lives .

A. Match the titles with the paragraphs by writing them in the space above.

- 1 . Pay attention                      2. Be genuine                      3. Focus on others , not yourself

B. Answer the following questions

1. Why are friends important ?

- 2 Why do we struggle in making friends ?

.....

- 3 What are the areas of interest that we truly care about ?

- 4 According to the writer, what are small things that last for a long time ?

.....

C. Decide whether the following sentences are TRUE or FALSE

1. You'll get more friends by trying to get others interested in you rather than showing your interest . (     )
2. By paying close attention to what they say , and how they interact, you'll probably get to know them .
3. When you are pretending to listen or faking interest , no one will notice . (     )

دورة اولى الفرع العلمي (2020) (Text 1) Reading comprehension

Read the text about the word of work and complete the tasks below:

A survey of 3.000 workers in the UK has revealed the top ten dream jobs. Being dream jobs, a certain amount of fantasy is involved, but what is the reality behind the dream ? We asked some professionals what doing was really like .

1 ..... Airline pilot, James Hutchings ' They didn't really make this the first choice , did they ? I'm not sure my job is what people were thinking of. They probably wanted to be jet fighter pilots . The work isn't as exciting as people think. You don't see the world, just the insides of airports. There isn't much job security either. There are lots of ways you could lose your job. It suits me at the moment because I'm young and single, but I don't want to be still doing it in ten years' time.

2 ..... TV and theatre actor Jane Nicholson : ' there's nothing I'd rather do. The feeling you get is like nothing else and it outweighs the many negatives like the pressure , the stage fright and the long periods without work. Unless you are a big star, you never know where the next job is going to come from.

3 ..... Pianist and singer Amina Kureishi: ' Almost everyone can become a musician, but the trick is to make a living from it. I mean there are singers, there are good singers, and there are successful singers, but they are three different things. For most of us , it's a life of late nights , long hours practicing, travelling from place to place, being paid just enough to put food on the table. The majority of professional musicians need other incomes, usually from teaching.

4 ..... Charity worker, Ben Harper : ' I can understand why this work comes so high in the list . It's the job satisfaction, isn't it ? A lot of people probably feel they'd rather do something to help others than working for a company making money for someone else. But the thing is that for most charity workers , it's just an office job. Even non- profit organizations have to be run like businesses these days. The people at the top are paid well, but those lower down are often volunteers.

A: Read the text quickly and match the jobs with each paragraph :

Reading comprehension Text 2 دورة ثانية 2019*Read the text and answer the questions below:

Most schools claim to prepare students for the world of work, but Milton Secondary School takes the claim very seriously. Before they even join the school, future pupils get an informal interview at their primary school to discuss their hope and preferences for the future.

The emphasis on employment continues during the first two years at Milton and then in the third year all pupils spend a day doing work experience at a local company. Two years later, this becomes a whole week spent with a company, usually arranged by the students themselves.

Throughout their secondary education, students have professional careers advice which costs the school over £30,000 a year. Head teacher Harriet Downs believes it's worth it. ' Teachers aren't trained as careers advisers,' she says, " so we bring in professional help. Read the text and answer the questions below:

In a speech yesterday, the Education Minister advised students to avoid arts subjects and choose science or maths if they want to improve their job prospects. In the past, he said, arts subjects like languages and history were chosen by students who didn't have a clear idea of what they wanted to do in the future. He explained that this was because of feeling that they involved skills that were useful for many different jobs, but he questioned whether this was still true: 'Nowadays, we know differently. The best subjects for keeping your options open are ones like science, technology and engineering.

It quickly became clear that the minister's words were controversial, with teachers and university heads reacting strongly to his advice. 'Of course, science and technology are important,' said one, 'but it would be completely wrong to neglect the arts. They provide important skills and an understanding of the world and people in general. Reading comprehension :Text 1 (Exame 2016 دورة ثانية)*1-Read the article about business - start ups and complete the tasks below .

Mustafa Jawad ,the 23-year old head of an online graphic design company was always good at art and languages, and when he finished school, everyone advised him to study English at university. Instead, he taught himself how to program and started making his own software programs. His first attempt was a game, which was so popular with his fellow students that he decided starting his own company might be a real possibility.

His big breakthrough came when he attended a 'start-up weekend' in Ramallah. He managed to get a small amount of financial support which gave him the time to develop more ideas. Perhaps more importantly, he met other business people, both Palestinians and from other countries and learnt a lot about the practical side of running a business and how to get his products noticed.

Mustafa is currently working on a program that makes teaching of chemistry at schools more fun. He has already had interest from within Palestine and from other countries in the Arab World.

Like a lot of other Palestinian business people, he wants to do something positive to help his country, but he stresses that his company isn't a humanitarian operation. 'It's a business,' he says 'and the aim is to get good returns on the investment.

One way he believes he can help is to pass on what he's learnt to others even younger than he is. 'I learnt a lot from that start-up weekend. When I go to the next one, I hope I'll learn more, but I'll also be able to advise others.

A: Answer the following questions :

Reading comprehension Text 2 (12-2018 )

Read the text out two business people then do the tasks below:

Seventeen-year-old Anita Simons started out making jewelry for friends and now sells it to top fashion shops and direct to the public via her online company. She says:

‘One of the most important things I've had to learn to do is decide the most effective way of spending money. You need to work out the financial figures and have them checked by someone who understands money. Luckily my parents are both in business themselves, so they advised me to spend more on marketing, less on product development, or whatever. Wherever it comes from, getting good advice is very important.’

Hashem Ali is the nineteen-year-old owner of a company that makes online music videos

His top tips:

‘I think initially the key thing is to understand the market. Work out who your potential customers are, who your competitors are, what they offer and how you could do it better. It's easy these days to get professional help with this kind of market research. After that, just be determined and don't give up if things get difficult (which they almost certainly will at some point). Starting and running a business is hard work. If you think it's only going to be a nine-to-five job, you should go and do something else.’

External Text (6-2017)*1) Read the text about starting up a business then answer the questions (external)

Starting a business involves planning, making key financial decisions and completing a series of legal activities. These four easy steps can help you plan, prepare and manage your business a.....It's really important that you deeply enjoy what you do. Make sure you are on the right track by asking yourself these three questions before you do anything else. Are you willing to work hard? Do you really want to operate independently? Do you have the self-confidence and self-discipline?

b.....The main reason for doing a business plan first when you are thinking of starting a business is that it can help you avoid wasting your time and money for starting a business that will not succeed. Starting a business without it is just foolish.

c.....you need a support system while you are starting a business and afterwards. A family member or a friend that you can bounce ideas off and who will listen to the latest business start up crises is invaluable. When you are starting a business, experienced guidance is the best support system of all d.....Save up if you have to. approach potential investors and lenders. Figure your financial fall back plan. Don't expect to start a business and then walk into a bank and get the amount you need.

Read the text and do the tasks below :

.....Are today's young stars sports overpaid? It's an opinion you'll often hear repeated, especially in the world of football. The figures are astonishing. When the Welsh player Gareth Bale joined Real Madrid in 2013 , his reported salary was around £250,000 a week or , if you prefer , £13 million a year . So every week he earns as much as the average Real supporter makes in ten years . This may be an extreme example , but there are a lot more footballers around the world earning almost as much .

..... It's a situation that makes some people very angry. But those who are infuriated by it often forget what players have to do to get to the top, and the risks involved. Anew book by Wayne Barton tells the story of some of those who fell on the way up. There are many young men who achieved the dream of playing for the famous club Manchester United, but only had short careers, often because of injuries. . Take young Tony Gill , for example , who was on his way to becoming a regular first team player when he hurt his leg and was never able to recover , or the young forward Deiniol Graham , who broke his arm and never played professionally again .

.....The list of these tragedies goes on , but the story that stands out is that Giuliano Maiorana. At the age of 19, he was playing for an amateur team in Cambridge shire, England when he was noticed by one of Manchester United's many scouts, who was searching for the lower levels of football for promising young players. At first, Giuliano thought the offer for a trial world-famous Manchester club was a joke. It wasn't – only months later, he played his first match at United's home ground, Old Trafford. He still remembers the mixture of excitement and fear he felt. ....Unfortunately, he didn't get on well with his manager and was soon playing in the reserve team. It was in a reserve match two years later that his knee was badly damaged. Soon, at the age of 24 his career was finished. For seven years after that, he couldn't even watch football. He now works for his family's business back in Cambridge, moving furniture, and says that he now wishes he hadn't been so good at football when he was young.

Answer the following questions :

1-What do angry people often forget according to the writer ?

But those who are infuriated by it often forget what players have to do to get to the top, and the risks involved. A new book by Wayne Barton tells the story of some of those who fell on the way up. There are many young men who achieved the dream of playing for the famous club Manchester United, but only had short careers, often because of injuries. Take the story of Giuliano Maiorana. At the age of 19, he was playing for an amateur team in Cambridge shire, England when he was noticed by one of Manchester United's many scouts, who was searching for the lower levels of football for promising young players. At first, Giuliano thought the offer for a trial world-famous Manchester club was a joke. It wasn't – only months later, he played his first match at United's home ground, Old Trafford. .....: There are limits to how many sports can be included in the Olympic Games. In the 2012 Summer Games, there were 26, and the International Olympic Committee (IOC) have added two more for 2016 (golf and rugby sevens). There are various criteria that the IOC bases its decisions on, but the most important is probably international popularity. Sports tend to get included if they have a tradition and are played and watched by enough people in enough countries.

.....: This leads to some interesting questions. Why, for example, was baseball included from 1984, but then dropped for 2012? Although some think it is only popular in the USA, it actually has a large following in South America and Asia too. The main reason for leaving it out, according to some, is a combination of geography and politics: there is little interest in the sport in Europe, and European members are in a majority on the IOC.

.....: Of the other sports not (yet) included, one that stands out is squash. It has a long tradition and is played all over the world. It's also more obviously a real sport than some other Olympic 'sports'. In fact, it's more mysterious why certain sports are included. Take speed walking, for example, a long-standing Olympic regular. The rules say that the athletes have to have both feet in contact with the ground at all times, and must keep their legs straight. The result, to me at least, looks very silly.

.....: More importantly, it breaks one of my two personal rules for judging serious sports because it puts artificial limits on what can be done.. My other rule is that the scoring has to be objective and measurable, not a matter of opinion.

Is it possible to justify that a few young sports stars are overpaid? In most areas of business, there are a few people who earn much more than the average. These people often have skills and talents that others don't; and this is certainly true of young sports stars. Sport is always about entertainment, and sports stars create excitement and fun for viewers. Yet people are often more likely to question whether a sports stars is paid too much than they are to question the money earned by a musician or a film star..

It seems that a lot of people have forgotten that young sports stars have a very short career. In most professional sports, players retire early by their mid-30s. The career can be even shorter if they have to retire early due to injury. Furthermore, these young stars may have had few opportunities to get an education as their teenage years are spent striving to get to the top of their sport. Players have to earn what they can when they are young, since it can be difficult for them to find other careers after they retire from sport.

However, many people would argue that sports stars who are paid so much money have a duty to act responsibly because they are an inspiration to thousands of young people around the world. These people pay to watch them play, and that's partly why the young sport stars are paid so well.

I am always amazed when I hear people saying that sport creates good will between the nations and that if only the common people of the world could meet one another at football or cricket, they would have no interest to meet in the battlefield . Even if one didn't know from a concrete example ( the 1936 Olympic Games for example) that international sporting contests lead to hatred, one could conclude it from general principles.

Nearly all the sports practiced nowadays are competitive. You play to win , and the game as little meaning unless you do your utmost to win. On the village green where you where you pick up sides and no feeling of local patriotism is involved . It is possible to play simply for the fun and exercise: but as soon as the question of prestige arises , as soon as you feel that you and some larger unit will be disgraced if you lose, the most savage combative instincts are aroused. Any one who has played even in a school football match knows this. At the international level sport is frankly imitative far ware . But the significant thing is not the behavior of the players, but the attitude of the spectators : and behind the spectators, of the nations who work themselves into furies over these ridiculous contests , and seriously believe- at any rate for short periods- that running , jumping and kicking a ball are tests of national virtue .

A -Answer the questions
