Year	Question
Not Included	1-Read the following letter, then answer the questions below: Hi everyone, Well, the first week has nearly passed, with no real problems to tell you about so far. It hasn't been easy though. So many things are different from what I'm used to. There's the language, for one thing. As you know, I've been studying English for many years, but this is like being a beginner all over again. It seems as if everyone is speaking a different language from the one, I studied at school! Still, I'm beginning to get used to hearing English all around me. Lectures don't start till next week, so this week has been a time of settling in: finding my way around, meeting people on the same course, joining clubs and societies and so on. There's actually a Palestine Society (which I've joined of course). They have guest speakers and discussion groups, organize cultural events and even food evenings, so at least I'll have some connection with home. I've joined two other clubs as well. I hope you're all well. I'll write again soon. Love, Mahmoud A. Reading and Comprehension (E4P-U1-P2-P6)

Year	Question
6/2019	2- Read the following text, then answer the questions below: Your comfort zone is, as the name suggests, the area where you feel comfortable. We all have one, whether we know it or not: it's the set of routines and known abilities that make us feel safe because we're confident that we can manage and are unlikely to be challenged by anything unexpected or worrying. Obviously, staying inside your comfort zone has many benefits, especially at times when you're feeling under stress. On the other hand, we're often told in 'self-help' books that it's a good idea to do things that are outside our comfort zones. In fact, many studies have shown that an important factor in helping people feel positive about themselves is the feeling that they are developing and making progress in their lives. You won't reach your full potential if you only do what you know you are able to do. We all want to improve ourselves, for example by learning something new, becoming more creative or getting fit. Unfortunately, people often get stuck in their comfort zones and don't feel able to try different things. There are various possible reasons for this. They may be afraid of failing or unsure how to begin. Many people think 'This is the way I am and I'll never change', using this as an excuse for not trying something new. Whatever the reason may be, it's sometimes necessary to force yourself to do something you'd rather not do. Once you've made the effort, though, the door to new experiences will be open and you'll probably wonder why you thought it was a problem. 1-Decide whether each of the following is True or False: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Unit Two

Under pressure

Reading and Comprehension (E4P-U2-P1-P1 ٤)

Year	Question
Not Included	1-Read the following tips, then answer the questions below: Do you sometimes feel that you're wasting a lot of your time and not getting enough done? Don't worry – you're not alone. Most of us fail to manage our time effectively. There are lots of books about time management on the market, but you don't need to waste time (and money) reading them. Here are some tried and tested tips for getting things done. TIP 1: _____ It's so easy to make excuses and find ways to avoid the thing you know you should be doing. Experts advise us to break this habit by becoming aware of our own excuses. The 'right time' to do something never arrives: the best time to do something is usually now. Once you've got started, you'll probably find that it wasn't as hard as you thought. TIP 2: _____ It's important to make yourself a 'to do' list or exam revision timetable, but remember that listing things isn't the same as doing them (see Tip 1!). Once you've worked out what needs to be done, decide which tasks have the highest priority and which can be left till later. TIP 3: _____ It's inevitable that things don't always go as well as you expect them to. If you find that you've 'hit a wall', there are two things you can do. First, persevere: with a bit more effort, you may find that you break through the wall. But if that doesn't work, try having a (short) break. Do something completely different, and come back to the task. TIP 4: _____ Even if you're under stress, there's no point making yourself ill – that will just make the pressure worse. Make sure you remember to eat regularly and healthily, and, even though it may be hard, try to get enough sleep. TIP 5: _____ You can't always make your brain work 'on demand'. Don't spend too long on one task, and learn to recognize when you're slowing down. Divide large tasks into smaller parts that are easier to manage, and reward yourself for completing them by doing something fun. 1-Read the main article quickly. Then choose the best title A–E for each tip. A. Look after yourself B. Just do it! C. First things first D. Keep going E. One step at a time 2- Answer the following questions: 1. According to experts, how can we break the habits of giving excuses? _____ 2. When is the right time to do things? _____

3. What should you remember when making yourself a 'to do' list or exam revision timetable?

4. What should you put on your consideration when working out what needs to be done?

5. How can we make the tasks easier to manage?

Reading and Comprehension (E4P-U2-P2-P16)

Year	Question
6/2017	1- Read the following text, then answer the questions below: The results of a new poll show that financial problems have taken over from the environment as the main concerns for young people. The survey asked over 12,000 people aged between 14 and 18 what they were most worried about. The clear 'winner' was 'finding a job', while the environment was only the seventh greatest worry. This compares with similar polls in the last fifteen years, when environmental worries came first. One of the poll's organizers commented that the results demonstrated a clear change in attitude. 'It's not just that getting a job is the main worry,' he said. 'Also included in the top six worries were getting into debt (6th) and passing exams (4th=). I'm convinced that there's a connection. Because of changes in the job market, there is more and more pressure on young people nowadays to pass exams and go on to university in the hope of finding a good job. And rising university fees make it inevitable that many students graduate from university with huge debts. Other concerns mentioned by large numbers of young people also tended to be personal rather than social, including worries about relationships (2nd), health (3rd) and 'fitting in with peers' (4th=). Annette Coleman, director of the Green Earth organization, said yesterday that she was 'disappointed, but not surprised' at the fall in the number of young people concerned about the environment. 'It's not that environmental concerns are less urgent than before – quite the opposite in fact. It's just that after decades of publicity on topics like climate change, so little has actually changed. A lot of people get the feeling that there's nothing we can do about it, and young people in particular tend to be impatient. Of course, the other thing is that in times of economic difficulty, people are more likely to focus on worries that are more immediate and have an impact on their daily lives.' A. Put the list of concerns in the order they appear in the text: 1. _____ 2. _____ 3. _____ 4. _____ 5. _____ 6. _____ 7. _____ B. Complete the sentences with phrases from the text: 1. Previous similar polls show that _____ were first. 2. The stress that young people face these days is _____

C. What do the following numbers and pronouns refer to:

1. 12,000 (line 2) _____ 2. 14 and 18 (line 2) _____
3. he (line 7) _____ 4. she (line 14) _____

D. Decide if the following statements are True or False:

1. Environmental problems are more important nowadays than fifteen years ago. ()
2. According to a poll's organiser, the change in the results explained a change in people's interests. ()
3. Three of the concerns by young people tended to be personal rather than social. ()

Unit Three

A funny thing happened

Reading and Comprehension (E4P-U3-P1-P٢٤)

Year	Question
Not Included	1-Read the following stories, then answer the questions: - A) _____ One day, I noticed that some bananas, which I had bought about a week before, were going brown. ‘Let’s make some banana cakes,’ I said to my six-year-old daughter, Fatima. It took quite a long time, but it kept Fatima busy and we had fun making them. When they were done, we tried one and it was actually delicious, so I suggested taking one to Mr. Aziz, the old man who lives next door. When Mr. Aziz opened the door, before I could say a word, Fatima told him: ‘We had some old bananas that were going bad, so instead of throwing them away we made them into a cake for you. I hope you like it.’ B) _____ A couple of years ago, I was talking to an old school friend that I’d kept in touch with when she mentioned another person called Jan, who had been in the same class as us. Neither of us had heard from her, or even thought about her, for over ten years. I didn’t give the conversation another thought until three days later, when I was working in London for two days. As I was travelling to the office, I saw a woman on the train. Our eyes met and we seemed to recognise each other. ‘Excuse me,’ she said, ‘but are you Susan?’ It was, of course, Jan. As it turned out, she was only visiting London for a few days and was about to return to Italy, where she had lived for over five years. C) _____ About three or four times a year, a company that I do some work for organises a day of meetings for those of us that work from home. They put us up in a hotel and it’s a good chance for colleagues who don’t meet that often to catch up with each other. The last time this happened, I arrived at the hotel quite late and went straight to bed. The next morning, I walked into the breakfast room and saw my old colleague Dan, a short man with a bald head, standing with his back to me. ‘Good morning, Dan,’ I said, patting him on the head in a friendly way. Unfortunately, the man who turned to face me wasn’t Dan at all, but a complete stranger. To make things worse, he was a rather formal man who didn’t see the funny side of the situation. ‘I’m sorry to say that you may have made an error,’ he said.

A. Match the following titles with the suitable stories above.

Year	Question
12/2020	2-Read the following text, then answer the questions below:
	We often hear people say, ‘It’s a small world, isn’t it?’ It’s usually when they’ve just experienced one of those strange coincidences that seem to happen in nearly everyone’s lives. You know the kind of thing: you’re on holiday in another country and you run into a person you know from home, even though neither of you knew that the other was going there too. People often think experiences like this are evidence of something mysterious happening, some kind of hidden plan outside our knowledge. The scientific explanation is less exciting, and perhaps that’s why some people are reluctant to accept it. Coincidences are events that unexpectedly happen at the same time for no clear reason or finding an unexpected connection between seemingly random things or people. A very common example of the latter is talking to a complete stranger and finding that you have the same birthday. What are the chances of that happening? Actually, the chances are better than you might think, and there’s a mathematical way to prove it. It has been calculated that the number of people you need to have a 50% chance of two of them sharing a birthday is 23. And when there are 48 people in a room, the probability goes up to 95%. To put it another way, if there are only 50 people reading these words (and I hope there are more!), one of them will almost certainly have the same birthday as me. The other part of the scientific explanation for coincidences is simply that there are so many events in people’s lives. Just think of the number of people that you have had any kind of connection with during your life. There are probably over 10,000, and the older you get, the more there will be. If you are the kind of person who talks to strangers, you will definitely come across coincidences. Basically, when you think about how complex our lives are, especially nowadays with the Internet, the only surprising thing is that coincidences don’t happen more often. A. Answer the following questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. What do people think of coincidences? _____ 2. What two definitions of “coincidence” does the writer give? a. _____ b. _____ 3. How does the writer prove coincidences scientifically? _____

4. When do you definitely come across coincidences?

B. Decide whether each of the following is True(T) or False (F):

1. Strange coincidences make people say, "It's a small world, isn't it?" ()
2. People prefer more exciting explanation for strange coincidences than scientific explanations. ()
3. The writer concludes that coincidences happen more often than we think. ()

Unit Four

The shrinking world

Reading and Comprehension (E4P-U4-P1-P38)

Year	Question
8/2021	1-Read the text and do the tasks below: Text A: As a parent, I'm becoming increasingly worried about the effect communications technology is having on young people. My fourteen-year-old son seems to spend hours every day texting or chatting online, or updating his social media page. He says he's going to do his homework, but an hour or two later still hasn't started it, and I can't help feeling that he's wasting so much time on this instead of doing useful things, or even just being with his friends and communicating with real people. Is all this texting affecting young people's ability to use language properly? Is there a danger that they could become addicted to technology? What potential dangers in the online world? I don't know enough about these new technologies to be able to answer questions like these. Text B: Like it or not, today's young people are the connected generation. A recent study in the US found that nearly a quarter of teenagers use social media sites at least ten times a day and 75% own mobile phones. Texting is now the main form of communication for young people. The figures obviously vary between countries, but the one thing we can predict is that they will continue to rise. Inevitably, this has led to panic among parents, teachers and other adults. But are these fears justified? Not according to Dr Amy Lehane, who has studied exactly how young people are using technology. 'If you look back,' she says, 'you find the same panic reaction from older people to the growth of the telephone or television. Often it comes from a fear of something they don't understand, but our research indicates that young people are quite capable of telling the difference between the online world and the real world, or between the types of language used for texts and job applications. They're also very aware of the possible negative effects of technology: they know, for example, that it's not a good idea to post a message like 'I'm having a party next Saturday' on a public sites" A. Reading and Comprehension (E4P-U4-P2-P40/41)

Year	Question
6 / 2020	1-Read the following stories, then answer the questions: It isn't hard to explain why parents, teachers and older people in general get so concerned about the negative effects of young people's use of communications technology. They may be motivated by a wish to protect their children from harm or to control them, but throughout history older generations have always tried to put limits on the behavior of the young. The only difference now is that the Internet is such a powerful force, and older people generally don't really understand this new world of social media and instant communication, so they're unable to control it. And the situation is changing so fast that the gap in their knowledge is widening all the time. In a similar way, governments, even in democratic countries, like to put limits on people's behavior. After all, it's a large part of what governments are about. They may have more technological knowledge than the average parent, but the spread of social media sites and communications apps like Twitter and WhatsApp is making it harder and harder for them to control what their citizens are saying and doing. Clearly, this isn't always a positive trend, but what we can say for sure is that new information and communications technologies are a force for social change and economic development, especially in poorer countries without a reliable traditional phone network. The World Bank has calculated that in countries like this, a 10% increase in high-speed Internet connections leads to a 1.3% increase in economic growth. It is, they say, 'the single most powerful way to extend economic opportunities and services to millions of people, especially in remote areas. A recent headline on the BBC website asked: 'Could Ramallah become an Arab World technology hub?'

The article went on to show how young Palestinians are starting small technology companies that could help the Palestinian economy to break free from the restrictions placed on it by the Israeli occupation. As one interviewee explains: 'This is what is good about technology: it breaks the borders. A person with a laptop can work in the worst situations; he can work from his home and interact with the global community, without a passport and despite the occupation. It is limitless.'

A. Answer the following questions:

Making Friends

Reading and Comprehension (E4P-U5-P1-P48)

Year	Question
8/2020	1-Read the text and do the tasks below: As someone who has made a lot of friends via the internet, I'm tired of hearing that they're not 'real friend's'. The argument seems to be that you can never really know someone unless you've actually met them . The fact is, though, that meeting someone is no guarantee that they're who they say they are. In fact, I regard some people I've met online as my closest friends. We actually have many interests in common, which is why we got together in the first place. The things I'm interested in are perhaps a bit unusual and there's little chance of meeting others with the same interest without the internet. Compare this with people I met at school and haven't seen or contacted for nearly twenty years, or people I know at work .I'm supposed to think of these as "real "friends and ones I chat to nearly every day as just "Internet friends". I'm told that these Internet friends are somehow less real, which doesn't make sense. In my experience, friendships made online are just as real as the ones we happened to make face to face. A. Answer the following questions : <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. What makes the writer think that meeting someone is not enough to know who they really are? _____ 2. Why is there little chance for the writer to meet others with the same interests without the internet? _____ 3. Mention two ideas that the writer complains about : a. _____ b. _____ B. Decide whether each of the following is True(T) or False(F) : <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. According to the text ,real friends can't be made online . () 2. What do these pronouns refer to ? <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. them _____ 2. We _____ 3. others _____ 4. ones _____

Reading and Comprehension (E4P-U5-P2-P50)

Year	Question
12/2019	1-Read the following text and do the tasks below: It used to be thought that friendship was something that ‘just happened’ between people. However, many studies by social scientists have shown that becoming friends with another person is a complex process, but one that can be learnt. Making (and keeping) friends isn’t easy –it takes effort. Here are the top five tips for turning someone you know into a lasting friend. 1 _____ Everyone has acquaintances – people we know, but who aren’t (yet) friends. To take your relationship further than just discussing the weather, you need to show an interest in their lives. Ask them questions (but don’t get too personal at first). Even more importantly, listen to their answers and remember the information for the next time you meet. 2 _____ Maybe you made a joke that annoyed your new friend, or forgot to call when you promised to. It’s almost inevitable that something will go wrong at some point, but it’s how you react to the situation that may be more important than the initial error. An honest apology and making the effort not to let it happen again are usually all that’s needed. 3 _____ When making arrangements, there are two opposite ways of behaving that can harm a friendship. The first is forcing the other person to make all the decisions by saying things like ‘I don’t mind, you choose’ or ‘Whatever you want’. The other is being too particular and inflexible about what you want to happen, or where, or when. Try to find a middle way between the two extremes. 4 _____ It’s understandable that you want to impress a new friend and make them aware of your good points, but don’t go too far. Research shows that most of us tend to like people who don’t boast about their achievements or take themselves too seriously. 1-Match the titles below with the tips in the text. a. Be clear, but not too demanding b. Don’t try too hard c. Don’t let one mistake get in the way d. Be interested 2-Decide whether the following is True or False : a. According to the writer, making friends is an easy task. () b. Friendship means more than talking about weather . () c. Being careless about friends' lives may limit your relationships with them. () d. To be too proud of yourself is extremely needed for new friendship. () 3-Answer the following questions : 1. How should you react if you do something wrong to your friend ? a. _____ b. _____ 2. What are the extreme actions that can easily destroy a friendship ? a. _____ b. _____ 4-The pronoun "it" refers to _____

Being ‘dream’ jobs, a certain amount of fantasy is involved, but what is the reality behind the dream? We asked some professionals what doing these jobs was really like. _____ : James Hutchings: ‘They didn’t really make this the first choice, did they? I’m not sure my job is what people were thinking of. They probably wanted to be jet fighter pilots. The work isn’t as exciting as people think. You don’t see the world, just the insides of airports. There isn’t much job security either. There are lots of ways you could lose your job. It suits me at the moment because I’m young and single, but I wouldn’t want to be still doing it in ten years’ time.’ _____ : Jane Nicholson: ‘There’s nothing I’d rather do. The feeling you get is like nothing else, and it outweighs the many negatives, like the pressure, the stage fright and the long periods without work. Unless you’re a big star, you never know where the next job is going to come from.’ _____ : Amina Kureishi: ‘Almost anyone can become a musician, but the trick is to make a living from it. I mean, there are singers, there are good singers and there are successful singers, but they’re three different things. For most of us it’s a life of late nights, long hours practising and travelling from place to place, being paid just enough to put food on the table. The majority of professional musicians need other incomes, usually from teaching.’ _____ : Ben Harper: ‘I can understand why this work comes so high in the list. It’s the job satisfaction, isn’t it? A lot of people probably feel they’d rather do something to help others than work for a company making money for someone else. But the thing is that for most charity workers, it’s just an office job. Even non-profit organizations have to be run like businesses these days. The people at the top are paid well, but those lower down are often volunteers.’ A. Read the text quickly then match the jobs with each paragraph: a. Musician and singer b. Airline pilot c. TV and Theatre actor d. Charity worker B. In the past, he said, arts subjects like languages and history were chosen by students who didn't have a clear idea of what they wanted to do in the future. He explained that this was because of a feeling that they involved skills that were useful for many different jobs, but he questioned whether this was still true: 'Nowadays, we know differently, don't we? The best subjects for keeping your options open are ones like science, technology and engineering.' It quickly became clear that the Minister's words were controversial, with teachers and university heads reacting strongly to his advice. 'Of course, science and technology are important,' said one, 'but it would be completely wrong to neglect the arts. They provide important skills and an understanding of the world and people in general. Also, the economy depends as much on creativity as on technical knowledge.'

8/2016	1-Read the following letter, then answer the questions below: Information and Communications Technology businesses could be the best hope for the economic future of Palestine, according to experts inside and outside the country. A recent report said that the ICT sector makes up over 5% of the Palestinian economy. Why ICT? For Mustafa Jawad, the 23-year-old head of an online graphic design company, the answer is simple: ‘For an ICT start-up, all you need is a computer and a connection. You can distribute your final product by exporting it to the Internet cloud.’ There are still problems, though. The main one is a lack of 3G networks in Palestine, because access to the necessary wavebands is not available yet. Mustafa was always good at art and languages, and when he finished school everyone advised him to study English at university. Instead, he taught himself how to programme and started making his own software programmes. His first attempt was a game, which was so popular with his fellow students that he decided starting his own company might be a real possibility. His big breakthrough came when he attended a ‘start-up weekend’ in Ramallah. He managed to get a small amount of financial support, which gave him the time to develop more ideas. Perhaps more importantly, he met other business people, both Palestinian and from other countries. He learnt a lot about the practical side of running a business and about how to get his products noticed. Mustafa is currently working on a programme that makes the teaching of chemistry in schools more fun. He has already had interest from within Palestine and from other countries in the Arab world. When I go to the next one, I hope I’ll learn more, but I’ll also be able to advise others.’

His advice: ‘I never had any training. I just jumped straight into things. After all, you don’t want to spend a long time getting everything perfect and then find the market has disappeared. But my lack of experience meant that I made some expensive mistakes at first. In the end, someone warned me against putting all my profits into developing new ideas instead of keeping some back to pay tax. But before that I’d had some unpleasant moments.’ Seventeen-year-old Anita Simons started out making jewelry for friends and now sells it to top fashion shops and direct to the public via her online company. She says: ‘One of the most important things I’ve had to learn to do is decide the most effective way of spending money. You need to work out the financial figures and have them checked by someone who understands money. Luckily my parents are both in business themselves, so they advised me to spend more on marketing, less on product development, or whatever. Wherever it comes from, getting good advice is very important.’ Hashem Ali is the nineteen-year-old owner of a company that makes online music videos. His top tips: ‘I think initially the key thing is to understand the market. Work out who your potential customers are, who your competitors are, what they offer and how you could do it better. It’s easy these days to get professional help with this kind of market research. After that, just be determined and don’t give up if things get difficult (which they almost certainly will at some point). Starting and running a business is hard work. If you think it is only going to be a nine-to-five job, you should go and do something else.’

The figures are astonishing . When the Welsh player Garth Bale joined Real Madrid in 2013 ,his repeated salary was around 250.000 a week or ,if you prefer ,13$milliona year. A new book by Wayne Barton tells the story of some of those who fell on the way up .These are young men who achieved thedream of playing for the famous club Manchester United ,but only had short careers , often because of injuries .Take young Tony Gill ,for example , who was on his way to becoming a regular first team player when he hurt his leg and was never be able to recover ,or the young forward. Deiniol Graham , who broke his arm and never played professionally again. _____ The list of these tragedies goes on ,but the story that stands out is that of Giuliano Maiorana .At the age of 19, he was playing for n amateur team in Cambridge shire, England when he was noticed by one of Manchester United's many scouts ,who was searching the lower levels of football for promising young players .At first Giuliano thought the offer of a trial for the world famous Manchester club was a joke .It wasn't- only months later ,he played his first match at United's home ground ,Old Trafford. He still remembers the mixture of excitement and terror he felt. _____ Unfortunately, he didn't get on well with the manager ,and was soon playing in the reserve team. It was in a reserve match two years later that his knee was badly damaged .Soon, at the age of 24 , his career was finished . For seven years after that ,he couldn't even watch football . He now works for his family's business back in Cambridge , moving furniture ,and says that he now wishes he hadn't been so good at football when he was young . A. Year	Question
6/2018	1-Read the following text, then answer the questions below: _____ There are limits to how many sports can be included in the Olympic Games. In the 2012 Summer Games, there were 26, and the International Olympic Committee (IOC) have added two more for 2016 (golf and rugby sevens). There are various criteria that the IOC bases its decisions on, but the most important is probably international popularity. Sports tend to get included if they have a tradition and are played and watched by enough people in enough countries. _____ This leads to some interesting questions. Why, for example, was baseball included from 1984, but then dropped for 2012? Although some think it is only popular in the USA, it actually has a large following in South America and Asia too. The main reason for leaving it out, according to some, is a combination of geography and politics: there is little interest in the sport in Europe, and European members are in a majority on the IOC. _____ Of the other sports not (yet) included, one that stands out is squash. It has a long tradition and is played all over the world. It's also more obviously a real sport than some other Olympic 'sports. In fact, it's more mysterious why certain sports are included. Take speed walking, for example, a long-standing Olympic regular. The rules say that the athletes have to have both feet in contact with the ground at all times, and must keep their legs straight. The result, to me at least, looks very silly. _____ More importantly, it breaks one of my two personal rules for judging serious sports because it puts artificial limits on what can be done. This is why I can't take any sport seriously if it involves doing something in water that is more naturally done out of water. My other rule is that the scoring has to be objective and measurable, not a matter of opinion. And of course, both of these criteria would rule out everyone's favorite example of an Olympic non-sport: synchronised swimming.

A. Match the heading with the suitable paragraphs above:

- a. Two examples of strange decisions b. What makes an Olympic sport?
c. My own criteria d. A change of mind.

B. Decide whether each of the following is True or False:

1. There were 26 sports in the 2016 Summer Games. ()
2. Baseball is well-known in most European countries. ()
3. The writer suggests that speed walking should not be included in the Olympics. ()

C. Complete the following:

1. The IOC included _____ and _____ for the 2016 Summer Games.
2. According to some, baseball was left out from the 2012 Games for _____ and _____ reasons.

D. Answer the questions:
